If you click the odds buttons you will be redirected to the bookmaker. We need to find the opportunities on both book makers.

If we click on Paddy Power, we can find it quite easily by searching for the game.

From There on we find the market here its like so

Quarter Tab > 4Th Quarter Alternate Points Total > Under 51.5

On Betfred its slightly different. Again after clicking the odds on sideflo we are directed to the Betfred site.

Some sports books don't have a search bar. We have to navigate them ourselves.

For this case we navigate to NBA.

Understanding Betting Market Short Form Notation

When using Sideflo, you'll see different types of betting markets displayed in short form.

Here's what each one means — so you know exactly what you're betting on when spotting an arbitrage.

1X2 (Match Result Market)

This is the most common market — predicting the outcome of the match.

Symbol	Meaning
1	Home team wins
X	Draw
2	Away team wins

Asian Handicap (AH)

Asian Handicap betting removes the “draw” option by giving one team a virtual advantage or disadvantage.

Symbol	Meaning
AH1(-1)	Home team starts with a -1 goal handicap
AH2(+1)	Away team starts with a +1 goal advantage
AH1(0)	Bet on home team, draw = refund (no loss or win)

Handicap

Similar to Asian Handicap, but includes the draw as a possible result.

Symbol	Meaning
1 (0:1)	Home team starts with a -1 goal handicap . Home team needs to win by 2 goal difference.
2 (0:1)	Away team starts with a -1 goal handicap
2 (1:0)	Away team starts with a +1 goal advantage .

Over/Under (O/U)

This market predicts whether the total goals will be over or under a number.

Symbol	Meaning
O 2.5	Over 2.5 goals (3+ goals = win)
U 2.5	Under 2.5 goals (2 or fewer = win)

Double Chance

Covers two outcomes in one bet.

Symbol	Meaning
1X	Home win or draw
X2	Draw or away win
12	Home or away win (no draw)

These are some of the main ones. There are more - the full bet description is under the short form name and you will get the hang of it with experience.
